JON WOOD

Director of Photography

I have been a DOP since 1996, prior to which I was a freelance clapper loader working on commercials and feature films where I trained under Ronnie Taylor BSC and Howard Atherton BSC.

As a DOP my work has ranged from feature films such as Shaun Of The Dead, comedy shows such as The Mighty Boosh and documentary series such as Monarchy and Imagine. I have worked for a diverse range of clients including the BBC, ITV, C4, Discovery Channel, Warner Bros, Columbia Pictures and many of the major independents.

I have gained extensive experience filming all over the world on all formats from HD to 35mm. I also have considerable experience with green screen photography, motion control photography, hot head crane operation, Tyler mount helicopter work and lighting for multi camera productions.

I am also a guest film production lecturer at several universities. In addition to my work as a DOP, I write articles on cinema technology for Cinema Technology magazine.

I also hold a US IVisa which is valid until 2016.

I was BAFTA shortlisted in 2012 for Dam Busters: Race To Smash The Dams and in 2003 for Hitler's Britain.
